Speech by Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands on the Resumption of Second Reading Debate on Housing (Amendment) Bill 2002
at the Meeting of Legislative Council on 19 March 2003

Madam President,

Under the prevailing Housing Ordinance, only non-official members of the Housing Authority (HA) are eligible for appointment by the Chief Executive to be the Chairman of HA. The main purpose of the Housing (Amendment) Bill 2002 (the “Bill”) is to implement one of the recommendations of the Report on the Review of the Institutional Framework for Public Housing, i.e., to enable the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands to become the Chairman of HA in future.

2. During the debate just now, Honourable Members have expressed their insightful views on how the necessary arrangements should be made. I am somewhat disappointed that the Honourable Albert HO Chun-yan did not raise what he said just now at the meeting of the Bills Committee on Housing (Amendment) Bill 2002 (“Bills Committee”). If he had done that, we could have thoroughly discussed those views at the Bills Committee stage. Today’s meeting, however, does not provide an opportunity for debating such views. The purpose of today’s Bill (SIC) is relatively restricted. However, I hope Madam President can allow me to give a brief response to one or two of the points raised, just like what the Honourable Frederick FUNG Kin-kee has done.

3. First of all, I accept and agree with most of the viewpoints of the Honourable Frederick FUNG Kin-kee. In the context of the related historical background, we should understand why we have such arrangements and proposals. The Honourable Albert HO Chun-yan has mainly put forth two points. He asks why we do not carry out a comprehensive reform. In fact, this is a matter of pace. If we convert the existing statutory body into an advisory body at one go, the scale of the “operation” will be huge. As HA is an independent organisation and a financially autonomous statutory body, a reform in this regard is tantamount to a major “operation”. If this is to be achieved at one go, we believe we need one to two years of time. This, however, is only a conservative estimate. We therefore hope that the work in this area (chairmanship of HA) can be carried out as soon as possible. The reform in fact needs to be carried out step by step.

4. Secondly, the question about whether the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands already charged with heavy responsibilities can respectfully perform his duty as the Chairman. Here I can make it very clear that there is no need to worry about it. This is because such a duty is in fact a major area of the existing responsibilities of the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands. Nonetheless, in the process of policy formulation, he must secure the support of HA. Issues covered by HA's terms of reference must be appropriately arranged so that HA can give full support to the policies concerned, thus bringing the government policies into focus. In this way, the policies can be implemented more easily upon introduction.

5. Under the accountability system, statutory and advisory bodies relating to housing affairs should be responsible to the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands. The new arrangement of appointing the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands to be the Chairman of HA is conducive to the integration of the HA operations into the overall decision-making process of the Government, thus enabling the Secretary for Housing, Planning and Lands to have a firm grasp of and to assume full responsibilities for the implementation and formulation of all administrative strategies and all other policies. It also allows for greater accountability to the Legislative Council and the public on the housing policies and programmes of the Government.

6. HA provides housing subsidies to half of the population in Hong Kong and shoulders the important responsibility of ensuring the allocation of our valuable public housing resources to the most needy families in society. Since its establishment in 1973, HA has had three non-official Chairmen. They have made great contributions to the achievements of HA and the development of public housing in Hong Kong. Dr. CHENG Hon-kwan, the incumbent Chairman, was appointed two and a half years ago. With his brilliant professional knowledge and rich experience in management, he has proactively and successfully steered HA to meet numerous challenges, which include enhancing the quality of public housing, participating in the review of the institutional framework for public housing, collaborating with the Government in the implementation of new housing policies and continuously improving the services of HA to the public. I would like to take this opportunity to pay my warmest tribute to Dr. CHENG for his invaluable contributions to society.

7. Besides, I would also like to express my gratitude to the Honourable Howard YOUNG, Chairman of the Bills Committee, and other Members, for their contributions to the smooth deliberation of the Bill and their support to the resumption of the second reading. I hope that Honourable Members will support this Bill.

8. Thank you, Madam President.
