

Section Title:

The Origin of Public Housing and Establishment of the Housing Authority

Super:

Fire in the Shek Kip Mei squatter area

VO:

On Christmas night 1953

a fire broke out in the Shek Kip Mei squatter area

Super:

Over 53,000 fire victims

VO:

Over 53,000 people were made homeless

This crisis persuaded the Government to build resettlement blocks to house both the fire victims and other squatter dwellers

Super:

The first Resettlement Estate in Shek Kip Mei completed in 1954

VO:

In 1954

the first batch of resettlement blocks was built in Shek Kip Mei

The Government set up the then Hong Kong Housing Authority

a semi-independent organisation providing low- to middle-income families

low-cost housing with basic provisions

In 1972

the government announced a Ten-year Housing Programme

Super:

The Hong Kong Housing Authority was established in 1973

VO:

and established the Hong Kong Housing Authority in 1973

putting management of all resettlement blocks

and low-cost housing estates under one roof

(June 2018)

The Housing Authority is a policy-making body which formulates policies on planning, design, construction, maintenance and management of public housing while the Housing Department carries out the policies and day-to-day operations